Who is Dr. Diana Driscoll?

Dr. Diana Driscoll world-renowned invisible illness expert and foremost authority on POTS, Chronic Fatigue Syndrome, Vagus Nerve Syndrome, and Ehlers-Danlos syndrome.

Dr. Diana Driscoll, optometrist, Clinical Director of POTS Care, founder of TJ Nutrition, and President of Genetic Disease Investigators was disabled with an "invisible illness" for over 10 years, as were her children. After contracting a virus on a mission trip in 2004, she developed POTS (Postural Orthostatic Tachycardia Syndrome). Her condition continued to worsen until she was ultimately left bedridden and forced to go on disability.

Dr. Driscoll sought help from over 50 physicians across the United States and found no answers.

When her son eventually became too ill to attend school, Dr. Driscoll turned to research. She set up a corporation called Genetic Disease Investigators to conduct studies on these "invisible illnesses".

Her research on invisible illnesses has resulted in 3 patents to date, and treatments for many.

Although disabled for over a decade, she and her children have fully recovered, and Dr. Driscoll is now the Clinical Director of POTS Care (POTSCare.com), the only clinic dedicated to locating and treating the underlying medical causes of POTS, not just the symptoms.

Why Dr. Diana Driscoll?

Her unique experience as a patient led to groundbreaking research, three patents to date, and a dramatic treatment paradigm shift for numerous "invisible illnesses". Now fully recovered, she is ready to share her story and practical experience at POTS Care.

Invisible illness seen from a patient and doctor perspective has given Dr. Driscoll the unique ability to empathize with those still suffering. She offers hope while addressing the underlying medical causes of invisible illness with her patients. One of her mottos -- "stay in the science" -- has guided her research and clinical practice. Through traditional western medicine she has helped many thought to be "zebras" and even some labelled as "hypochondriacs". She can often shed light on often misunderstood conditions by speaking from both the patient and doctor perspective. Her work is helping Post-COVID Long-haulers today.

"Dr. Diana's wisdom along with her personal experience with this illness has given her incredible insight — insight that she desires to share!"
